OUR CORRESPONDENT SEES DAIRY SHOW

Last Saturday, just after dinner, our telephone bell began to ring loud, long and vigorous. I pulled my hands out of the dishwater, shaking the water off of my fingers and wiping my hands on my apron as I hurried to the phone. Well, it was only my good neighbor, Mrs. Fred Uhlman, who said fast and loud, "Don't you want to go over to Frakes' dairy meetin'?" I yelled back, "Yes, how soon?" She said, "We are ready now." "All right," says I, "come on." Well such a race for some togery. I got rigged up in about ten minutes, that is I thought I was rigged up for a long distance look. I just said now that meetin' will be men folks at the barn and by keeping coat and hat on no one will know but that I am really dressed up. Honk, honk went the machine, and I grabbed a hat and put it on as I went across the railroad track and jumped in that machine, and away we went to the dairy meetin'. How happy and self satisfied I felt as I rode along. Arriving at the Lakeside farm, we swung around by the side of a string of mobiles and were greeted by George Frakes as he came from the house yelling, "You're just in time for dinner." Lawdy sakes! We had all had our dinner and supposed they had. No, sir; they had not, and the house was full of folks—real live people, too, and the big porch was full, too, and a long table set there just loaded down and groaning with everything. Goodness alive! I did not know what to do, because I knew I was not presentable. Everybody had on their Sunday clothes "cept myself." Well, Mrs. James Pomeroy says, "Mrs. W., just step in here and take off your hat." "Well but," says I, "I can't 'cause I didn't comb my hair." Well, I did just what you might expect—I sneaked in that room and curled my hair, stuck on a little powder, put in a few pins, took a few tucks and drew a breath of relief, and then made my appearance on the porch as independent as anyone. When it came to eating, I explained to each and everyone, collectively and individually, that I had already eaten my dinner, but before I knew it I had a plate, piled up, and a cup of coffee, and I'll never tell how many times the plate was emptied, but nobody there guessed that I had had anything to eat since "day before yesterday."

After dinner, pictures of the bunch were taken, and then I discovered that this "meetin'" was composed of the Oregon Holstein Cattle Club. I secured some of the names of the people who were present from a distance. They were J. Luscher, president, and Mrs. Luscher, of Fairview, Ore.; H. G. Mullenhoff, secretary, Gresham; J. W. Hughes, Forest Grove; Thos. Carmichael, Gaston; A. H. Burns, Gresham; Mr. and Mrs. Hall, Multnomah county agent; D. C. Howard, Columbia county agent; Mr. Schraier, Gresham; Horace Addis, field editor Oregon Farmer, Portland.

Everybody went to the barn on a tour of inspection. These wise men had tablets and pencils for note taking. I was sorry I hurried away without tablet and pencil, because I wanted to look wise, like news reporters should, but anyway I tried to keep my distance so as not to be noticed too closely, but I could see, without my specs, that Frakes has a beautiful, up-to-date, sanitary barn filled with the finest specimens of black and white, gentle, mild-eyed heifers and the loveliest calves of all sizes with "white spots in the forehead, black on the tail and white on the hoof," as that is what they said was required when they were registered. Well, I am not sure I got it all, because, you know, I didn't want to ask questions and make myself ridiculous.

Since the high water the fields are of the loveliest green and the cattle find the best of pasture; gardens are growing fine and fruit is on the trees, although they stood in about four or five feet of water so many weeks. Now, it grew to be milking time, and everybody left, as people usually do when there is work to be done, and left Mr. and Mrs. Frakes and son George to finish up. Everyone enjoyed every minute and hope there will be another meeting of the Oregon Holstein Cattle Club at the Lakeside farm.

PRANKS OF SHELLS

Curious Effects of High Explosives Used in Modern War.

The explosive force of the big shells used in modern war has produced many curious effects. In some cases these effects have been to deprive men of the power of speech, in others to restore it. In the same way hearing has been lost and also regained, while sight has been suddenly banished and as suddenly been brought back.

But one of the most astonishing effects of all was that narrated by a French captain. It occurred while he was occupying an observation post in a tree. An eight-inch shell happened to explode immediately beneath him, with the result that the displacement of the air hurled him clear out of the tree. It also knocked him senseless for a few moments, and when he came to himself he made the amazing and disconcerting discovery that it had stripped him of his breeches, vest and tunic, leaving him, as he put it, "as bare as a worm."

Another soldier described the freak of a shell of which he was the victim. It exploded several yards away from him without doing him any harm. But it blew his overcoat from his back, and when he picked the garment up it was minus all the buttons.

The eccentricity of another shell was sworn to by a trooper, who was certainly a very close observer. He was standing between two horses when the projectile burst close by, killing both animals, but not injuring the trooper in the slightest.

On account of labor shortage many girls are working in the box factories at North Bend.

SUMMONS

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE STATE OF OREGON FOR THE COUNTY OF COLUMBIA.

Edythe Elizabeth Dutton, Plaintiff, vs. Fred Dutton, Defendant.

To Fred Dutton, the above named defendant:

In the name of the State of Oregon, you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled suit within six weeks from the date of the first publication of this summons, to-wit: September 14, 1917, and if you fail to appear and answer for want thereof, the plaintiff will apply to the court for the relief prayed for in her complaint, to-wit: for a decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony and marriage contract heretofore and now existing between plaintiff and defendant, and that plaintiff have an absolute divorce and that her former name be restored to her all of which being upon the grounds of cruel and inhuman treatment and personal indignities rendering her life burdensome, and for such other and further relief as to the court may seem just and equitable. Service of this summons is made by publication thereof in pursuance of an order of the Hon. J. A. Eakin, judge of the above entitled court, directing the publication thereof in the St. Helens Mist, and which order was made and entered on the 12th day of September, 1917, in the above entitled court.

J. C. SIMMONS,

Attorney for Plaintiff,

907-8 Wilcox Bldg., Portland, Ore.

Date of first publication Sept. 15, 1917.

Date of last publication Oct. 26, 1917.
